Empire State Manufacturing Survey

Note: Survey responses were collected between February 3 and February 11.

Business activity edged higher in New York State in February, according to firms responding to the Empire State Manufacturing Survey. The headline general business conditions index climbed eighteen points to 5.7. New orders and shipments grew moderately. Delivery times were slightly longer, and supply availability was slightly lower. Inventories continued to expand modestly. Employment levels moved lower. Input prices increased at the fastest pace in nearly two years, and selling price increases also ticked up noticeably. Though firms expect conditions to improve over the next six months, optimism about the outlook dropped significantly.

Activity Picks Up Slightly

After declining last month, manufacturing activity grew slightly in New York State, according to the February survey. The general business conditions index climbed eighteen points to 5.7. The new orders index rose twenty points to 11.4, suggesting orders increased after declining last month, and the shipments index rose sixteen points to 14.2, indicating that shipments increased. Unfilled orders held steady. The inventories index remained positive at 8.7, a sign that inventories grew. The delivery times index came in at 5.4, suggesting that delivery times were slightly longer, and the supply availability index dipped to -2.2, a sign that supply availability edged slightly lower.

Price Increases Pick Up

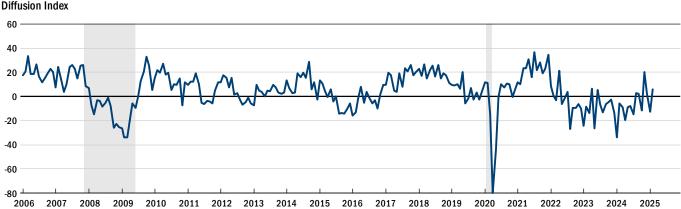

The index for number of employees fell to -3.6, suggesting that employment levels moved somewhat lower, while the average workweek index was -1.2, suggesting that hours worked held steady. Both price indexes climbed for a second consecutive month: the prices paid index rose eleven points to 40.2, its highest level in nearly two years, and the prices received index rose ten points to 19.6.

Optimism Falls

Firms expect conditions to improve in the months ahead, but optimism declined noticeably. The index for future business activity fell fifteen points to 22.2. Capital spending plans remained soft. Supply availability is expected to contract somewhat over the next six months.
